“ Cut the cards up. Tighten up the belt strap if you can. Get rid of non-essential expenses. Try to find a free credit counseling service in your area to get you set up on a budget that you can live with. Call your creditors, and negotiate a lower interest rate. Don't be afraid to ask them what they can do for you. There is no shame in admitting to a stranger, over the phone, that will never see you in person, that you've had a rough year, you'd like to live up to your responsibilities, but you need some breathing room, and ask them how they can help you out. If they say they can't, ask them what it would take to get to a point where you can negotiate lower rates. Try to throw more money at the cards with lower balances, so that you can pay them off, and free up that cash. You're only 25. Life is long. Get your debts dealt with ASAP. As tired as you feel now, it's worse when you're 35. seen too many friends make this mistake!
