“ I’ve known Margie since I was a child, and I know that she loved her Lord and Savior and her family above all else. As her eyes grew more dim, she “found and ordered” a voice recording of the Bible which she quickly learned how to use, then replaced it when she thought it might be wearing out. It was the one thing that was always within her reach, and she used it faithfully to listen to the “Word” multiple times during the day. She was NOT going to be without God’s Word, and to my knowledge she never was.

We shared many wonderful visits; each will always be treasured by my heart. She shared stories of her youth; Sunday mornings when her Papa cleaned out the wagon, hitched the mules up and the family headed to church stopping along the way for neighbors or “anyone who wanted a go with them”. She talked of her youth; fun times shared with cousins and memories of our aunts. She also talked of hard times but never complained, not even when the topic was working in the cotton fields or life during the war years.

Margie was truly a special lady, loved by all who knew her, gracious, humble, wise through reflection and experience, and yes, somewhat strong-willed (how else would she have reached her 100th birthday with such a sharp mind and sense of humor).

“ I am so very sad. I miss you but I do know you are in a much better place. You have your wings so now you can fly high and watch over those you have left behind. Love you dearly. My sincere condolences to those left behind. Until we meet again I will always carry you on my heart
