“ The first letter I ever received from Marsha was back in the 60's , she had expressed how excited she was to meet Jesse's family especially me since Jesse had told her so much about me. The first time we met was in Abilene , Texas when my brother and Marsha had drove down from Lawton , Oklahoma in 1969 where Jess being in the Army was stationed at that time. Marsha took one look at me and stated ""you're not like the rest of the family". I knew exactly what she meant. She was a delightful person. . They seemed really happy. We were expecting our first child and not too many months thereafter we found out that her and Jesse too were expecting I had never seen such a happy couple . My brother Jesse went to heaven way to soon. Now they are reunited and for that it brings rest to my being. Their children have been like our own and we will always feel that way about them.

We are deeply sorry that Marsha was called home so soon. May God give her family strength, comfort and peace during this time of grief. May God continue to keep his arms around you both and your family until you can find rest in knowing that your mother is safe in His arms , in God presence FOREVER HEALED and with the love of your youth.. Love , prayers, and hugs .
