“ Myrtice West was the strongest person in the world. She lived through a multitude of trials and met them all with strength, energy, and joy. Nothing could keep her down. She could run circles around people half her age. Regardless of her audience, Myrtice always expressed her beliefs and opinions with no pretense whatsoever, and yet with no ill will. We loved Myrtice and we know we are fortunate to have known her so well. The last time we saw her she was happy, and bouncing in her little sneakers. We have many memories of her that make us smile. We know Myrtice had absolutely no fear of death, rather she welcomed it. Her faith was genuine and profound, and a tremendous source of hope and comfort to her. We hope heaven is everything she expected and more. We imagine her there doing her little happy dance.

“ I know you'll all find strength in your faith and in the marvelous life and accomplishments Myrtice achieved in her time here. I'm very proud to have an early painting of the crucifixion in my collection that she did in the early 80's and actually got to visit her years ago in Alabama. She touched many people in her life and her work will live on in many collections the world over.

“ Myrtice was a precious soul who would do anything to help someone else. She was a wonderful artist and friend to many other artists. She will be greatly missed by all who were lucky enough to know her. The angels are welcoming her home.
