“ When Brad was little, he went to our mother's day care center. Smart and creative, he loved experimenting with new words. One day, he would call everything and everybody a cucumber, and the next, they were all alligators. One morning, he announced to Mother that from then on, his name was Braddoodle Bill Hurley and she was MacMac. Thankfully, Brad outgrew his nickname, but MacMac never did. We will never forget Brad, who created a unique name for a unique person and brought such joy to our whole family. May God give his mother and his daughter especially the peace that passes all understanding. Trust in Him.

“ Brad was my coworker. He was a good guy he was the same all the time. To me he was someone who didn't change with the weather. He will be greatly missed. Sending prayers to his family. May the grace of our Lord Jesus comfort you during this time of grief.
